Q. 1-A) Read the following extract and answer the questions given below

(11)

The next day, the king arrived in court humming a happy tune to himself. Seeing all the people gathered there waiting for him, he was even more pleased. He cleared his throat and said in a loud voice, "I have called you here to ask you a very important question. As your king, I need to know if all of you are contented. Do you have enough for your needs? Do you know anyone who is not happy about anything?"

The citizens looked at each other, thought for a while and slowly one by one they came forward to answer. One after another they all said how happy they were - their kitchens had enough food, their trades and business were doing well, the king had made them feel safe. The farmers had grown good crops and the rivers and ponds were full of fish. What more could they ask for?

The king became more and more pleased as he heard this. Only Chandan, his minister, watched and heard everything with a frown on his face. Why? What was wrong? Soon he walked up to the king and whispered something in his ear. King Amrit's eyebrows rose up in astonishment. Surely, Chandan could not be serious. But he looked at the minister's face and found no trace of this being a joke.

He turned back to the court and made a most unusual announcement. "I am delighted that all of you have said you are happy. But I want to test this. Tomorrow, I want all the happy people of this kingdom to come and meet me in the royal gardens. But I have a condition. All of you will have to enter the garden by the gate at the rear of the garden. I will wait for you there. When you enter the garden you will be given a sack each and you can pick whatever fruits or flowers your heart desires."

An excited buzz broke out among the crowd. It sounded like a lot of fun. No one was usually allowed to enter the king's special garden. He had planted trees from all over the world in that garden and it was said to be filled with all kinds of beautiful and strange plants.

1. What do you come to know about the Minister Chandan from this passage? (01)
2. Why did the king become more and more pleased? (02)
3. Why did an excited buzz break out among the crowd? (02)
4. Do you think King Amrit was a good king and ruled his kingdom well? Why? (02)
5. Do as directed:
  - (a) He walked up to the king to whisper something in his ear. (01)
(Rewrite using the Present Continuous Tense)
  - (b) He looked at the minister's face and found no trace of this being a joke. (01)
(Rewrite as a simple sentence)
  - (c) The farmers had grown good crops. (01)

(Change into indirect speech)

Q. 2) Read the following extract and answer the questions given below*(11)

They would be wonderstruck at the sight of his landing on my head and fly away together, making musical sounds in chorus. For more than three years he had been my intimate friend whom I had given all the freedom he was born to. At last, he stopped coming. His family bonds might have become stronger than his friendship, with me. Still I miss him, but I am happy that he was not denied the joys and ecstasy of the arboreal life to which he was born.

Today, this real story is the one my five-year old, younger daughter wants to hear again and again. I have recounted the story umpteen times. And every time after hearing it, she asks me to show her a woodpecker which makes nests for parrots.

Alas, they are not seen nowadays! Not only woodpeckers, even the parrots are not seen in our locality. And what happened to the weaver-birds? Not even a single nest is seen today. How can they be seen? Paddy cultivation is disappearing from my village and can these birds, who feed mainly on paddy, survive the man-made ‘climate change’ or rather the ‘cultivation change’? But where have all the woodpeckers gone? What happened to them? In the yesteryear, the bird was spotted in pairs almost every day, but now I have not been able to show my five-year old younger child even a single woodpecker! I have been listening long since to hear the sound tak, tak, tak ... tak, tak, tak ...

1. The narrator is _____ because the parrot did not turn up. (01)
(unhappy / happy / sad)
2. Who wants to hear the real story again and again? Why? (02)
3. Why are woodpeckers, parrots and weaver birds not seen in the writers’ locality nowadays? (02)
4. How do you think urbanization affects biodiversity? (02)
5. Grammar:
  - (a) For more than three years he had been my intimate friend. (01)
(Make it interrogative)
  - (b) Not only woodpeckers, even the parrots are not seen in our locality. (01)
(Rewrite without using ‘not’)
  - (c) How can they be seen? (01)
(Rewrite as a statement)
6. Explain the phrase “ecstasy of the arboreal life.” (01)

Q. 3) Read the following extract from the poem and answer the questions given below

(04)

And we with our small vanities
Our controlled hunger for climbing and getting as far as everybody else has gotten because it seems that is the way of the world:
an endless track of champions and in a corner we, forgotten may be because of everybody else, since they seemed so much like us until they were robbed of their laurels, their medals, their titles, their names.

1. What is the way of the world? (01)
2. Do you think the middle class is marginalized in cities? Why? (01)
3. Identify the figure of speech in the line "since they seemed so much like us"? (01)
4. Who are the champions? Why? (01)

Q. 4) Read the following extract from Rapid Reading and answer the given question

(04)

She nodded. "My family was hiding on a farm in Germany, not far from Berlin," she told me. "My father knew a priest, and he got us Aryan papers."

I imagined how she must have suffered too, fear, a constant companion. And yet here we were both survivors, in a new world.

"There was a camp next to the farm." Roma continued. "I saw a boy there and I would him apples every day."

What an amazing coincidence that she had helped some other boy. "What did he look like?" I asked. "He was tall, skinny, and hungry, I must have seen him every day for six months."

My heart was racing. I couldn't believe it. This couldn't be. "Did he tell you one day not to come back because he was leaving Schlieben?"

Roma looked at me in amazement. "Yes!"

"That was me!"

I was ready to burst with joy and awe, flooded with emotions. I couldn't believe it! My angel.

"I am not letting you go." I said to Roma. And in the back of the car on that blind date, proposed to her. I didn't want to wait.

"You're crazy!" she said. But she invited me to meet her parents for Shabbat dinner the following week. There was so much I looked forward to learning about Roma, but the most important things I always knew; her steadfastness, her goodness. For many months, in the worst of circumstances, she had come to the fence and given me hope. Now that I'd found her again, I could never let her go.

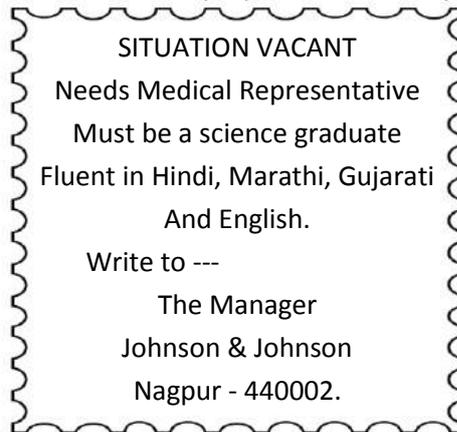

That day, she said yes. And I kept my word. After nearly 50 years of marriage, two children and three grandchildren I have never let her go.

Imagine that you are the author, narrate what Roma told you.

Q. 1-A) Read the following passage and answer the questions given below:

(11)

The first requirement for a city is a pragmatic plan. Many of our cities such as Delhi and Bhubaneswar and even Port Blair in the Andamans have reasonably good master plans. Many also have City Development Plans which have been made an essential requirement to draw funds from the government's Urban Renewal Programme (JNNURM). But they should be updated frequently based on the changing needs of its people.

And let's not forget its citizens - they need to be more pro-actively involved when evolving master plans. But often, there's lack of planning and inadequate implementation systems. This applies to all essential components of a city — streets, public transport system, traffic management, affordable housing, cars and parking, drainage, water supply, sewerage and garbage. Any deficiency in these will lead to poor quality cities which won't be able to handle the pressures of increased population and changing needs.

The second requirement of a good city is good social infrastructure such as parks and places for leisure such as river and sea fronts. It needs to preserve and protect its heritage. We are a nation with a rich diversity in culture, arts and crafts and cities are great platforms for that, given the right facilities. And let's not forget good and affordable educational and healthcare facilities too.

1. _____ need to be pro-actively involved when evolving master plans.
(Architects, Planners, Citizens) (01)
2. What are the essential components of a city? (02)
3. Why is it necessary to update our city development plan? (02)
4. "Needs of the city people change" Do you agree? Explain. (02)
5. Rewrite the following sentences in the ways instructed:
  - (a) Their populations have surged tremendously in the last few decades.
(Add a Question Tag) (01)
  - (b) Our urban planners have perhaps not understood the nature of the modern city.
(Frame a Wh-question to get the underlined part as the answer) (01)
  - (c) It's a dense amalgamation of buildings and people.
(Rewrite using the Present Perfect Tense) (01)
6. Find words from the extract which mean: (a) ten years (b) increased (01)

Q. 1-B) Do as directed

"Yes I will" said Jack. (Change it into Indirect speech) (02)

Q. 2) Read the following passage and answer the questions given below:*(11)

Looking back at my own life, I feel that it is the spirit with which we can accept our life gracefully is what matters ultimately; and it is love which nourishes us. All other things are unimportant. Chaitanya has made me look inwards. His handicap doesn't disturb me any longer. He and I shall live with it and still be happy. The mental strength which he has given to me is inexhaustible.

One day, as both of us got onto a public transport bus, Chaitanya offered to buy the tickets for us.

"One full, one half," he said to the conductor beaming with joy.

Looking at him, I wondered whether he was really only a half. An incomplete person? Was I really full? Complete in all respects? Why do then normal people feel that they are 'full' and others like Chaitanya are half or incomplete? Chaitanya's world is complete in itself, pure and innocent while our lives are full of deceit, jealousies and ill feelings.

His words have intrigued me ever since. Whenever I think of Chaitanya, I feel he is complete to himself although a little different from us. How could I call him only a half? The half, incomplete person was myself and not him. The distance for the bus was the same for both of us. Only the tickets were priced differently.

The day the world sees him the way I do, it will not be a one half world. It will be one full world - A world full of love, caring and sharing.

1. What do you come to know about the writer from this extract? (01)
2. Why does the writer say "His handicap doesn't disturb me any longer? (02)
3. Why does the mother consider Chaitanya's world as complete in all respects? (02)
4. What changes of attitude in the people around should take place, according to you? (02)
5. Rewrite the following sentences in the ways instructed:
  - (a) All other things are unimportant. (Rewrite as a Negative Sentence) (01)
  - (b) The mental strength which has given to me is inexhaustible. (Add a question tag) (01)
  - (c) How could I call him only a half? (Rewrite as an Assertive Sentence) (01)
6. Give the Verb forms of (a) pure (b) conductor (01)

Q. 3-A) Read the following poem and answer the questions given below.*(04)

While I lay awake in bed,
God's still small voice came to me and said,
"While dealing with a stranger, common courtesies you use,
But the children you love, you seem to abuse.

Look on the kitchen floor,
You'll find some flowers there by the door.
Those are the flowers she brought for you.
She picked them herself: pink, yellow and blue.
She stood quietly not to spoil the surprise, and you never saw the tears in her eyes."

1. Why was the mother awake in her bed? (01)
2. Do you think the bonding between the mother and daughter was strong enough to bother for the incident? What do you learn from this? (01)
3. What is the rhyme scheme of the first stanza. (01)
4. Why did the little girl stand very quietly by the kitchen door? (01)

Q. 3-B) Read the following poem and answer the questions given below.

(04)

Old women do not fly on magic wands nor make obscure prophecies from ominous forests.
They just sit on vacant park benches
in the quiet evenings,
call doves by their names and charm them with grains of maize.

Or, trembling like waves they stand in endless queues in government hospitals or settle like sterile clouds in post offices awaiting mail from their sons abroad, long ago dead.

1. Where are old women seen wandering? (01)
2. Why according to you, are old women seen roaming aimlessly? (01)
3. 'Settle like sterile clouds' what is the figure of speech used? (01)
4. What does the line 'from their sons abroad, long ago dead' mean? (01)

Q. 4) Read the following passage and answer the questions.

(04)

It was the last I ever saw her.
My brothers and I were transported in a cattle car to Germany.
We arrived at the Buchenwald concentration camp one night weeks later and were led into a crowded barrack. The next day, we were issued uniforms and identification numbers.
"Don't call me Herman anymore." I said to my brothers. "Call me 94983."
I was put to work in the camp's crematorium, loading the dead into a hand-cranked elevator. I, too, felt dead. Hardened, I had become a number.
Soon, my brothers and I were sent to Schlieben, one of Buchenwald's sub-camps near Berlin.
One morning I thought I heard my mother's voice.
"Son, she said softly but clearly, "I am sending you an angel."
Then I woke up. Just a dream. A beautiful dream.
But in this place there could be no angels. There was only work, hunger and fear.

Q. 2-A) Read the following passage and answer the questions given below: (11)

In just a few years, 2020 will be upon us. By then, our cities will be either areas of more chaos or meaningfully planned. The choice is ours.

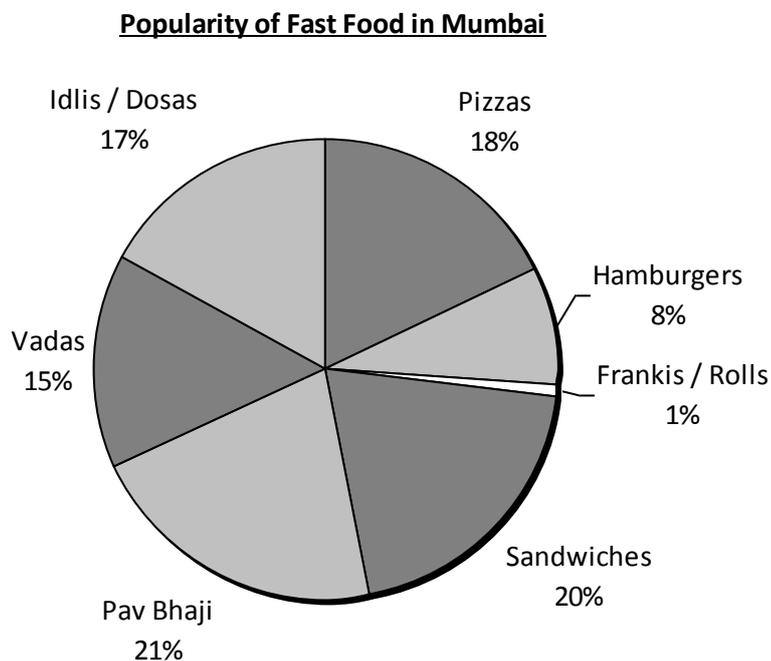

We are at a crucial juncture as far as urbanism goes. The need to work vigorously on our cities and improve them is urgent and critical. Their populations have surged tremendously in the last few decades. Delhi's population increased from 12.8m in 2001 to 16.3m in 2011. Bangalore grew from 5.7m to 8.5m during the same period.

Our urban planners have perhaps not understood the nature of the modern city; what it takes not just to run them but to make them livable. The two key requirements of a city are: provision of basic services and social infrastructure. These need to be developed together.

So what is a city? It's a dense amalgamation of buildings and people. A city must provide equity and also be sustainable. As an architect who has been closely connected with Delhi and its planning, my wish list is more about the direction we need to take so that generations don't end up living in chaotic dysfunctional cities.

1. The author says, "The choice is ours". What is this choice? (01)
2. How does the writer define a city? (02)
3. How can we make our cities livable? (02)
4. Do you think unplanned cities make the life of its people miserable? How? (02)
5. Rewrite the following sentences in the ways instructed:
  - (a) We are at a crucial juncture as far as urbanism.
(Rewrite using the Present Perfect Tense) (01)
  - (b) The need to work vigorously on our cities and improve them is urgent and critical.
(Rewrite using "Not only . . . . . but also") (01)
  - (c) These need to be developed together.
(Rewrite the sentence beginning with "We . . . . .") (01)
6. Write down the meaning of 'amalgamation'. (01)

Q. 3-A) Read the following poem and answer the questions given below. (04)

While I lay awake in bed,
God's still small voice came to me and said,
"While dealing with a stranger, common courtesy you use,
But the children you love, you seem to abuse.

Look on the kitchen floor,
You'll find some flowers there by the door.
Those are the flowers she brought for you.
She picked them herself: pink, yellow and blue.
She stood quietly not to spoil the surprise, and you never saw the tears in her eyes."

1. Why was the mother awake in her bed? (01)
2. Do you think the bonding between the mother and daughter was strong enough to bother for the incident? What do you learn from this? (01)
3. What is the rhyme scheme of the first stanza. (01)
4. Why did the little girl stand very quietly by the kitchen door? (01)

Q. 3-B) Read the following extract and answer the questions given below: (04)

I celebrate the virtues and vices of suburban middle-class people who overwhelm the refrigerator and position colourful umbrellas near the garden that longs for a pool:

for my middle class brother this principle of supreme luxury,

What are you and what am I, and we go on deciding the real truth in this world.

- 1) What does the poet celebrate? (01)
- 2) How do you form opinion about somebody? (01)
- 3) Identify an example of Paradox from the poem. (01)
- 4) Pick out the line which means the middle class people imitate the rich. (01)

Q. 4) Read the following extract. (04)

It was the last I ever saw her.

My brothers and I were transported in a cattle car to Germany.

We arrived at the Buchenwald concentration camp one night weeks later and were led into a crowded barrack. The next day, we were issued uniforms and identification numbers.

"Don't call me Herman anymore." I said to my brothers. "Call me 94983."

I was put to work in the camp's crematorium, loading the dead into a hand-cranked elevator. I, too, felt dead. Hardened, I had become a number.

Soon, my brothers and I were sent to Schlieben, one of Buchenwald's sub-camps near Berlin.

One morning I thought I heard my mother's voice.

"Son, she said softly but clearly, "I am sending you an angel."

Then I woke up. Just a dream. A beautiful dream.

But in this place there could be no angels. There was only work, hunger and fear.

Extend the extract by adding a short paragraph of your own, you may begin - "Days passed by with this same routine. Then one day . . .
